The herpes very frequently shows itself only in the winter time and in identically the same spot every year. When it comes out a little poslam should be at once applied, and this annoying skin affection will quickly vanish. Poslam is the new skin remedy which has cured thousands of the worst cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible ktching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use poslam for these minor skin troubles should immediately secure one of the special 50-cent packages recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may be obtained at Lee & Osgood's and Smith's Drug Store in Putnam, Woodward Drug Store in Danielson and Chesebro Drug Store in Willimantic.

Samples for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

Hope to Settle Contested Divorce

Mrs. Miller Asked if She is Willing to Enter Into a Reconciliation and Reestablishment of er Home, if Husband Agrees to be Faithful Husband and Father -No Answer as Yet.

divorce case of Freelove A. Miller vs. Everett O. Miller occurred on Thursday when the opening effort was made to bring about a reconciliation of the couple and family. It came at an unexpected moment and, surprised by its suddenness the gathering of witnesses and spectators, as well as the plaintiff and her counsel. After asking about some trouble between herself and husband, the witnesses of which she said were "herself, Mr. Miller and God," Attorney Hull asked Mrs. Miller if she didn't think it a better thing for her, being without support and having the care of two boys, her condition of health and all concerned, to go back to her home and establish felations there and make a home for her boys. Mrs. Miller's answer was: It is impossible to make such a home unless there is a mutual agreement. Are you willing to do this? asked Attorney Hull, and she said; I haven't any home.

There was objection here on the part of the plaintiff's counsel, claiming it is too late for such proceedings, and Attorney Hull in response said that the state as a state is interested in the maintenance of the marriage relation, and no time is too late in an inquiry of this kind which will help bring about a reconciliation. If it is possible that a suit of this kind can be stopped the law certainly favors it. Only at the last term of the court a judge on this bench took occasion to suggest that a reconciliation ought to be brought about, even after the case was tried. If so, the attitude of the plaintiff is of very vital importance. It is never too late in such cases, if it is before the legal knife has done its work. There is no such thing as being too late. The plaintiff has said that Dr. Manwarring in her home had advised it and it seems to have been pretty good advice.

Is the Defendant Willing?

The court held that the question was

Is the Defendant Willing? The court held that the question was not proper, as it did not show any willingness on the part of the defendant.

Attorney Hull stated that the defendant, of course, didn't admit all the facts testified to in the case thus far, to which the court replied that nothing need be admitted, but the defendant should be willing to do all he should and ought to do as a husband.

Attorney Hull agreed to ask another question embodying all that the court suggested and asked the plaintiff: "Provided Mr. Miller is willing on his part to agree to a reconciliation and agree that he will perform his duty as a faithful husband and father, are you willing on your part to enter into a a faithful husband and father, are you willing on your part to enter into a reconcillation and re-establishment of your home and return to him with your children, as a family?"

Objection was made to the question on the part of the counsel for the plaintiff, Attorney Browning claiming that the opposing counsel seemed to forget the questions in the case, which are certain allegations and denials, which are the questions and the nials, which are the questions and the only ones before the court. The rec-ommendations of the court in another ase may have been a good thing, but understand it has not been followed. I understand it has not been followed. The question here is on the allegations. I believe her story. What have we got in that question? Can you rely on his promises? Before the separation she was willing to undergo almost anything until at last there came things which she couldn't endure. If she could believe it and if she was positive of it she would no doubt do it for the sake of her children. He submitted that the question had no bearing at this point and should not

Mrs. Miller the Only Witness.

Mrs. Miller the Only Witness.

At the opening of court Thursday morning Mrs. Miller was recalled for continuation of the cross examination and was on the stand all day, being the second day of the trial in which she has been the sole witness, and her testimony is not completed.

In the testimony of Thursday, her cross examination was regarding matters which had been given in the direct examination with regard to the defendant's view of them. She said that for 14 years she had corresponded with her husband before their marriage, she having done sewing for revenue. She referred to their living at Yantic, and said that with the exception of one hired man Mr. Miller did all the work on the farm. Her brother came there in 1898 and stayed six years. He received $18 a month and his board during the summer months. During the first year of their married life Mr. Miller had required her to sleep on the floor because of something she had done to displease him.

They hired a pew in the Methodist church in 1902, but he had occupied it but twice, although he was a member of the church. Since their marriage he had used much profane language, not in his ordinary talk, but at times. She did not know of any time she was sick when she did not have what she wanted. wanted.

Threatened to Kill.

She told of one instance when she was unconscious from the time the boys went to school until the afternoon at four o'clock, and denied that she had told her sister that Everett had tried to poison her. She said he had threatened to kill her if she lived with him any longer. She said she has she had told her sister that Everett had tried to poison her. She said he had threatened to kill her if she lived with him any longer. She said she has been refused medical aid several times. In April, 1906, her husband told her "Your health is better than mine." She denied telling her brother in-law, Elmer Miller, that she would be all right if she could have a team to drive when she wished. She denied spilling a pitcher of milk and spoiling a new suit of Kelsey Filmore's, or that she raised a chair over Thomas Doyle's head. Her husband had often said her head was not right and she was not to be trusted. She told of the occurrence when Kelsey Filmore struck her in the face, but she denied ever throwing any garbage upon him. She said it was a common occurrence for Mr. Miller and Kelsey to be rolling about the kitchen. When Gurdon threw the hot gravy she felt quite sure that she did not try to take a bib away from him and nothing of that kind occurred. She denied that she had broken a hat box on Kelsey Filmore's head.

Her husband called her a hypocrite and told the boy to be just as he wanted to as far as she was concerned; that she was crazy, and they'd have her down to the hospital soon. He said Gurdon was no account and wouldn't amount to anything; that she had spoiled him by her manner of talking to the boy.

When Mr, Miller turned her on her head and gave her a beating, she said "there were present herself. Mr. Miller and God." In 1909 Dr. Manwarring told them that they ought to stop quarreling and make up. It was at this point that she was asked if she didn't think she ought to make up with her husband, as previously told.

The case will come up next Tuesday morning, but there will be a short calendar session of the court at ten o'clock this morning.

There was fifteen women in at-ssion of the court at ter o'clock this morning. There was fifteen tendance at the trial.

hall has been secured. The holding of such a meeting was advised some time ago by those interested in the work of preventing inberculosis and the local union decided to adopt the idea. The result has been that one of the state tuberculosis commissioners, Hon, J. F. Gunshannon, has been secured to come here and address the meeting, while there will be a number of local speakers, including Mayor Lippitt, who will preside, Dr. H. M. Pollock of the Norwich state hospital and Dr. E. J. Brophy.

Norwich state hospital and Dr. E. J. Brophy.

There has been much interest aroused in this subject in the past few years and particularly so in this city, where it was noticeable in the sales of the Red Cross stamps for the past two years for the purpose of aiding the fund for the establishment of a camp in this vicinity. Several addresses have been made on different occasions in this city, but this is the first hig mass meeting to be held regarding the matter. No action is expected to be taken at this time, but the idea is to extend the information on the subject and increase the activity in the endeavor to reduce the death rate from the white plague.

Keep His Hands Off.

The attempt to drag Gov, Weeks into the (congressional) situation is without warrant. While we do not pretend to speak for the governor, we know that any attempt to represent him as "out for the nomination" would be wholly without even semblance of truth. As a Middlesex county man, the governor would naturally as a matter of purely personal choice favor a Middlesex county candidate as long as one was in the field with any possible chances of success. His abhorrence of use of his official position, directly or indirectly, for the settlement of any political controversy, or to further his The attempt to drag Gov. Weeks in-own political future is too well known to need emphasis here. The report that he will figure in a way in the contest between Col. Shepard and Major Tilson is therefore without foundation. This contest is capable of an amicable settlement in a proper republican spirit and this will be the outcome, despite vague that threatening rumors to the contrary.—Middletown, Sun.
